PLACE OF ART

KINGSCOTE

THE late Neil 'Shep' Sheppard started his art career as a pen and ink artist, but did not discover colour until the last 18 years of his life.

He was very adventurous, experimenting with themes, media and subject matter, ranging from traditional landscapes, seascapes and buildings to abstract and naive depictions of daily life.

Having always sketched in black and white, the former teacher started painting with acrylic and oil, with numerous solo and shared exhibitions following.

As a result his work is owned in collections worldwide.

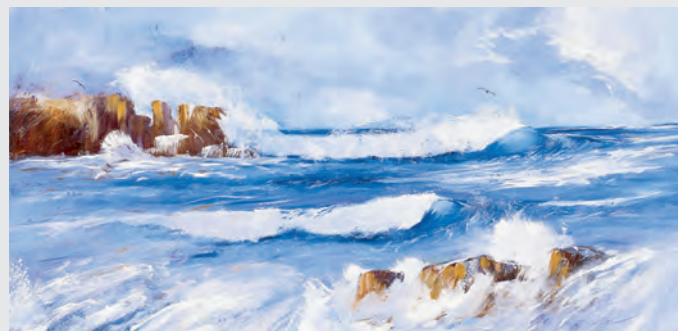

Shep's Studio is open by appointment only, has wheelchair access, with a relaxed atmosphere for guests to browse.

Original paintings and fine art quality limited edition reproductions are available for purchase.

Shep's artwork is also available at Fine Art Kangaroo Island in Dauncey Street, Kingscote.

CYGNET RIVER

ONE of the best kept secrets of Kangaroo Island Spirits is just how much there is to do when you visit.

First established in 2006, and with new ownership in 2020, the distillery has undertaken a $3.5 million upgrade.

"Introducing more immersive experiences and having a dedicated space to deliver them in has been one of the greatest developments we have undertaken recently," manager, Kylie Bamfield said.

"There is nothing better than to see people enjoying our ever-changing cocktail menu in the garden or hearing the laughter and engagement of a group undertaking an experience and raving about our products.

"We are not just a cellar door offering tastings.

"We have a full cocktail menu, food offerings and the opportunity to engage in a range of fully immersive experiences."

Some of the experiences on offer include a premium gin tasting, a blend your own gin masterclass, or learning the art of cocktail making with the experienced staff.

"Our small dedicated team goes above and beyond to ensure our valued guests have a great experience," Kylie said.

Kangaroo Island Spirits also has its very first whisky program, where the distillery will be laying down about 5000 litres of whiskey a month.

"This venture is building the foundations for an exciting future, where they will be delivering Kangaroo Island's first whisky to the world," Kylie said.

Kangaroo Island Spirits frequently host events throughout the year, so make sure to stay up-to-date with what is happening.

"Whether you are after a casual cocktail in the garden, an opportunity to try our award winning spirit range or engage in something a little more hands-on, Kangaroo Island Spirits has something for everyone," Kylie said.

The Penneshaw Market season lasts seven months, and is held on the first Sunday of each month from October to April, including Easter Sunday.

The opening market of the season will also host the Great Dudley Bake Off organised by the Penneshaw branch of the South Australian Country Women's Association.

The bake off involves community members cooking cakes, competing for the title and includes separate entries for junior and senior classes.

All entries are sold at $1 an item as a fundraiser for local organisations.

The KI Farmers and Artisans Market resumes at the Kingscote jetty area on the third Sunday of each month, starting on September 17, 2023, from 10am to 1pm.

SOURCING KI

Kate developed a vision to create a food business that connected people with the authentic flavours and artisan food producers of KI.

She has earned herself the reputation as Kangaroo Island's most produce driven chef.

Kangaroo Island Source offers a range of gourmet products which are manufactured in the Kangaroo Island Source Kitchen.

All ingredients are hand selected and supplied by local producers. Kangaroo Island Source also caters for a range of events, from gourmet barbecues, cocktail parties and degustation dinners with a private chef to corporate functions, gourmet packs for your accommodation

SOAK UP THE SKINCARE

KANGAROO ISLAND

KANGAROO Island Skincare offers a boutique range of skin and hair care products, made to highlight some of Kangaroo Island's most unique materials.

Owner and producer, Kerrie Barter said that by establishing her business, she was able to recognise the beauty of her island home all over again.

"I have had a passion for skincare for as long as I can remember and when I started making my own products back in 2015 I fell in love with the island's unique produce," she said.

"Three years later with the help of my friends, family and some amazing business women, I was able to create a uniquely Kangaroo Island range of products.

"I think when you grow up on Kangaroo Island you kind of become immune to how beautiful it is and just how lucky we are to be a part of such an amazing community."

Kerrie said that she fell in love with all the amazing produce which comes from the island.

When crafting the skincare range, Kerrie consulted an award-winning chemist to help create and produce a luxury range inspired by Kangaroo Island's beauty and her love for skincare.

The range features some of Kangaroo Island's finest and most unique produce, including organic Ligurian honey from the world's only pure strain of Ligurian honey bees.

Other ingredients include native sustainability farmed and harvested Narrow Leaf Mallee Eucalyptus and award winning, ethically sourced coffee beans roasted on Kangaroo Island.

Kerrie said she was grateful for the help she had when she first started.

She also attributes her success to the businesses which stock her product, and any one who has bought her product and loved it.

"I still get butterflies in my stomach thinking about how lucky I am to have such wonderful customers," she said.

SWEEPING VIEWS ON DUDLEY

DUDLEY PENINSULA

EXPERIENCE the essence of Kangaroo Island at Dudley Wines.

Sweeping clifftop views surround you as you sample Dudley's fine Kangaroo Island wines accompanied by gourmet pizzas and platters.

There's a nature play area with plenty of space for young ones to run around.

Try your hand at "golf across the gully", an opportunity to practice your golf skills for the young ones and young at heart!

Dudley Wines is run and owned by Jeff and Val Howard, their three children and their families.

The Howard family's history on Kangaroo Island dates back more than 140 years.

In the 1960s, Jeff, a fourth generation 'Islander', purchased a block, known as Porky Flat, on the south coast of the Peninsula, which he gradually turned into a successful merino sheep and cattle farm.

With the collapse of the wool industry in the early 1990s, Jeff planted vines as an experiment, and made their first red wine in part of the old shearing shed.

They named it "Shearing Shed Red" and it was purely for their own use.

The following year they made their first commercial vintage wine, and Dudley Wines grew from there.

Dudley Wines' vineyard is in a beautiful valley at Porky Flat.

The vines are dry-grown and thrive in the rich limestone soils.

The fresh Southern Ocean breezes ensure a slow ripening season, leading to enhanced fruit concentration.

About 30 per cent of the property is still untouched native bushland and it is the isolated nature, and the pristine surrounds of the vineyard that contribute to the unique characteristics of Dudley's Wines.

Jeff's son Brodie took over the role of winemaker in 2000.

Being the owner/winemaker for over 20 years has given him the freedom to explore many techniques and develop his own winemaking style.

His range of wines are diverse, and carefully crafted to capture and emphasise the abundant fruit characteristics presented by the Island's terroir.

Dudley Wines are proud to produce a 100 per cent Kangaroo Island product, grown and handcrafted just 15km from the cellar door.

It embraces sustainable practices in the vineyard and winery, including the use of animals to control weeds and pests - limiting chemical use, using solar power and but no irrigation.

All of the wines are low in sulphur and vegan friendly.

A destination not to be missed on your visit to Kangaroo Island.

Wednesdays - bookings are

EMU BAY LAVENDER FARM

EMU Bay Lavender is a farm gate cafe set amongst rows of beautiful lavender.

The business makes and packages an extensive range of lavender products on site and also offers a delicious lunch menu in the cafe.

The humble story of Emu Bay Lavender began in 2001 where a small lavender garden was first planted.

And 19 years later, the farm now runs over 51 acres of land and has an estimate of 7500 lavender plants, including 12 different varieties of Lavandula Angustifolia and Lavandula Intermedia.

The business is owned by a fifth generation Island family which is continually striving to increase the farm's efficiency and sustainability.

During summer, the lavender flowers are in full bloom and ready for harvesting.

Kangaroo Island's famous Ligurian bees are busy pollinating the flowers and begin producing the signature lavender honey.

Workers hand harvest and strip about 8000 bunches per year, and distill 10 kilograms of essential oil, used in all of the handmade therapeutic products.

It may not sound like much, but it takes about 100 kilograms of flowers to produce just one kilogram of oil.

Summer - The flowers are in full bloom and harvest takes place by hand throughout the summer. The bees pollinate the flowers and begin producing the signature lavender honey.

Autumn - This is the time of the year lavender bushes are pruned by a third to stimulate growth, which prevents the bush from growing thin and scraggly, which can reduce the yield of flowers and oil that can be collected.

Winter - Each winter the lavender field is weeded by hand and it's the time to take cuttings to create new plants. Guests enjoy sitting in the cosy cafe with a warm cuppa and freshly baked lavender scones from the oven.

Spring - During spring, the plants start to produce new growth and lavender flower buds begin to develop.

The cafe is open for breakfast from 9am to 11.30am and lunch is 12pm to 3pm.

KICK BACK, ENJOY THE BAY

KINGSCOTE

CAPTURING stunning sea views over the vineyard towards historic Reeves Point, Bay of Shoals Wines is well worth a visit.

This is a boutique coastal winery located on what was originally Reeves farm.

Its cellar door was established in 2006, and the vineyard produces sophisticated yet approachable wines.

Bay of Shoals Wines offer an authentic Kangaroo Island product, with the grapes being grown, harvested, and made onsite at the winery.

Aside from experiencing its personal approach to wine tasting, you are welcome to sit in any of the beautiful seating areas, overlooking the amazing views, and enjoy a glass of wine with a hamper-style lunch, or a pre-booked picnic or seafood platters.

Bay of Shoals Wines offer many wine varieties that are made by its winemaker, Frank Huisman, who came from Tasmania, bringing with him many years of winemaking experience.

It is no surprise that the award-winning riesling, which is grown close to the water's edge and thought to be the closest to the sea in the southern hemisphere, has proved to be very popular.

Bay of Shoals' range of white wines offer a refined and elegant style showing lively crisp, clean notes, and intense fruit flavours.

The winery is conveniently located just five minutes from Kingscote, and aside from wine tasting and sales, accommodation "Vineyard Escape" is available overlooking the vines and Bay of Shoals.

ANOTHER GREAT HARVEST

HAINES

THE 2023 apple harvest for Kangaroo Island Ciders was a bumper crop, with star performers being the Old English cider varieties of Yarlington Mill, Improved Foxwhelp and Bulmers Norman.

This year, Kangaroo Island Ciders owners Graham and Mary Jones had the assistance of members of the KI Dragons dragon boaters to bring in the harvest at the orchard located at Haines.

"Like previous years, we had our problems with bird damage particularly in the early part of the season, when they demolished our rows of dessert apples in the lower part of the orchard," Graham said.

"But fortunately (the birds) found new homes in the latter part of the season to allow our cider varieties to mostly escape harm."

The traditional ciders the business makes rely upon a mix of bittersweet and bittersharp apples to provide the polyphenolic backbone to the ciders' flavour, in much the same way that hops are used in beer making.

"These are then blended with other varieties which we grow to provide additional flavour, sweetness and acid to make our robust, full-flavoured ciders," Graham said.

"With the harvest in, the apples have been sent to a large juicing facility on the mainland and then fermented and made into cider.

"The cider has turned out to be one of the best we have made - another memorable vintage. Cheers!"

Kangaroo Island Ciders have won numerous awards, including a national title, with its varieties.

Kangaroo Island Ciders are available at venues around Kangaroo Island, including just a couple of stone's throw from the orchard, at Emu Ridge Eucalyptus Distillery.

KEEPING HISTORY ALIVE

MACGILLIVRAY

LARRY and Bev Turner founded Emu Ridge in 1991 and since then they have not looked back.

In 1991, the Turner family faced a big question: what should traditional sheep farmers do given a downturn of wool prices?

The couple came up with an answer, not realising that it would lead them to become one of the few remaining commercial eucalyptus oil distilleries in Australia.

"We are extremely proud of our family-owned business and keeping this Aussie industry alive," Emu Ridge owner Bev Turner said.

Eucalyptus oil was Australia's first true export overseas, but these days around 90 per cent of the world's supply comes from countries like China and Brazil.

Today, more than 32 years later, Emu Ridge Eucalyptus Oil Distillery, craft gallery, cafe and cellar door have grown to be one of the most popular tourist attractions on Kangaroo Island.

When visiting the unique attraction, they will show you the past and present processes of eucalyptus oil distilling from a tree endemic to Kangaroo Island, where they produce an essential oil unique to the world.

The business also has a great range of natural products that it has proudly developed, in addition to supporting many other local producers and artisans in the retail store.

Emu Ridge is proudly the cellar door for Kangaroo Island Ciders, where you can taste and buy the award-winning local apple ciders.

They also have a cafe with three dining areas of your choice to try their delicious breakfast and lunch menu, and the bar has a great range of local beer, wine, spirits and delicious cocktails.

There are guided and self-guided tours, historical relics, barbecue area, public toilets and more.

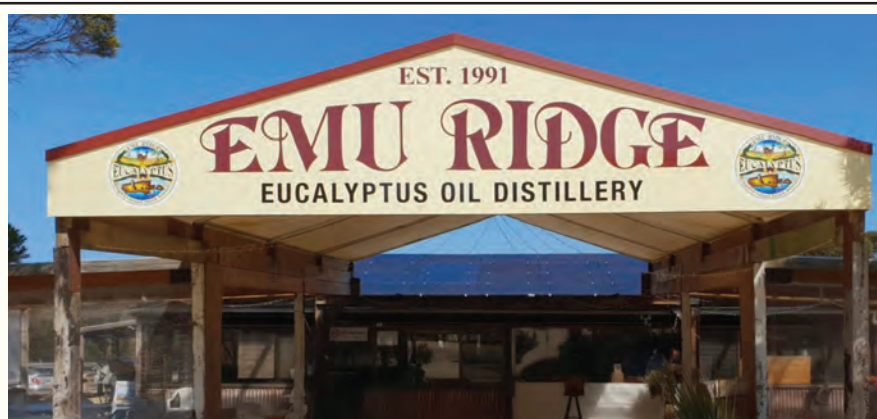

The shop, cafe and cellar door is open seven days, from 9am-4pm, with extended hours during school holidays and long weekends.

KANGAROO ISLAND

NEW VINTAGES, EXPERIENCE

CYGNET RIVER

SPRINGS Road Wines was established in 1994, producing small volumes of chardonnay, shiraz, cabernet sauvignon and a cabernet sauvignon/shiraz blend.

It was founded and built by Kangaroo Island legend Roger Williams, of Roger's Deli fame.

Springs Road Wines has been owned and operated since 2016 by the owners of McLaren Vale's Battle of Bosworth Wines, Joch Bosworth and Louise Hemsley-Smith.

Joch and Louis's expansion into Kangaroo Island came fortuitously after taking their winery crew on a mystery tour of Kangaroo Island at the end of the 2016 vintage.

Joch was shopping for groceries when he saw an advertisement for Springs Road vineyards.

Recognising the potential, the property was bought and the rest is history.

"We built a cellar door off the existing shed and opened up for business in December 2018, and launched the Springs Road wines at the same time," Louise said.

Louise loves showing off their wines and educating people about their other wines from McLaren Vale, the beautiful Cygnet River area and Kangaroo Island in general.

She said the Springs Road label was adapted from French cartographer Louis Freycinet's 1808 map of southern Australia, 'Carte Generale de la Terre Napoleon'.

Since taking over the winery at Cygnet River, just outside of Kingscote, the pair have also branched into the "Little Island" range, which includes a shiraz and a dry rose.

The Little Island wine label is inspired by the front cover of a short history of Kangaroo Island, which was published in 1951 by the Kingscote branch of the Country Women's Association (CWA).

A new wine for 2023 is the Little Island Fizz, a sparkling KI red, and there is also a new 2023 vintage of the Little Island Rose.

Soon to be released for sale is the new vintage 'Terre Napoleon' - barrel reserve shiraz - 2022.

There are plans for the Springs Road cellar to extend its catering for children over the summer and also operate a book exchange where books can be returned to the Battle of Bosworth winery – the mother ship at Willunga.

Louise said children will be able to enjoy playing in a teepee toy tent.

"Parents can enjoy a tasting and a glass of wine while the young folk entertain themselves out of the sun in a confined area," Louise said.

Springs Road offers a tasting experience, which includes a full tasting of its wines, plus cheese and crackers.

CRACKING FAMILY BUSINESS

HAINES

FRYAR'S Kangaroo Island Free Range Eggs is a family owned-and-operated business situated on Kangaroo Island's pristine farming land, producing pastured, free range eggs.

Tom and Fiona Fryar established the business in 1992, with just 400 hens on 40 hectares of land.

Today, the couple and their sons, Thomas and Jason and their wives Kirby and Bonnie, run full-beaked true free range hens over their 2000-hectare farm and employ over 25 people.

The hens live in 80 individual custom built mobile sheds on the farm, which are designed so that the hens are never locked in and are continuously free to roam as they please.

The mobile sheds provide roosting rails, nest boxes and shelter for the hens.

The hens' welfare is of the utmost importance to the Fryar family, which is why they run them at no more than 190 hens per hectare.

The mobile sheds are placed on fresh pasture giving the hens plenty of space to scratch and peck at seeds, grass and insects.

The hens' nutrition is also enhanced by a mixture of grains that are grown, harvested and crushed all on the farm.

Kangaroo Island Free Range

Eggs have marenmma stock guardian dogs that live with the hens.

The dogs love living out with the hens and do a brilliant job guarding them from any predators, such as eagles and feral cats.

Eggs are collected daily and stored in a cool room to ensure they are a product of excellent freshness and quality.

The eggs are then graded and packed on the farm.

Each week, the eggs are sold and transported in refrigerated transport to stores and outlets on Kangaroo Island, Adelaide, regional South Australia, Melbourne, Sydney.

Kangaroo Island Free Range Eggs is a growing business, which the Fryar family recognise would not be where it is today without its wonderful staff members.

The team consists of 25 employees from the people who collect the eggs, tend to the dogs' and hens' needs, work in the egg-processing facility, feed the birds, perform maintenance and farm duties around the farm and look after the egg sales.

Every team member is vital to the business and is the reason KI Free Range Eggs are able to produce such a high-quality product.

The business is externally audited so customers can be assured that the pastured free range hens are true free range.

KI Free Range Eggs is certified by Humane Choice and PROOF (Pasture Raised On Open Fields).

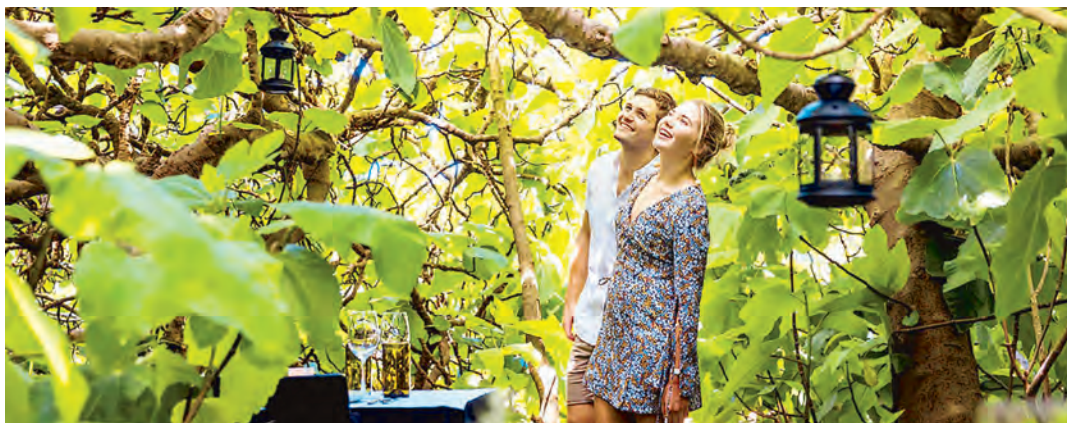

It is also accredited under the Primary Industry and Regions SA Egg Food Safety Scheme and audited by Biosecurity SA against the National Egg Food Safety Standard.

The business has significantly grown over the years and the Fryar family are excited to see where it is heading in future.

The Fryar Family thanked its loyal customers for supporting them over the years, and said they appreciate your business and wouldn't be where they are today without you.

FAMILY FARM OLIVES ON KI

HAINES

KANGAROO Island Olives is a South Australian agribusiness focused on regenerative agriculture and sustainable farming.

The owners deeply respect the environment and hold a fundamental belief in working with mother nature, not against her.

They believe healthy soils grow healthy foods which make healthy humans.

Today, the family farm is known as 'Little Liguria'.

It is a mixed farming operation which includes olive groves, honey bees, seasonal grazing, and agri-tourism.

Kalamata, Frantoio, Koroneiki, Leccino, Ligurian, and many more varieties of olives can be found on Little Liguria, with large areas of woodlands also dedicated to land care and wildlife conservation.

Olives are harvested once a year, delivering award-winning extra virgin olive oil and table olives directly to your plate.

As the saying goes 'oils ain't oils'.

Extra virgin olive oil is the most beautiful, flavourful, healthy olive oil that you can get from an olive tree. It's a privilege to make and an honour to use.

Day-to-day farming activities are coordinated by Dom, while son Michael handles business operations.

"Kangaroo Island Olives is a family owned agribusiness committed to producing award-winning extra virgin olive oil and table olives," Michael said.

"Our focus is on regenerative agriculture and sustainable farming.

"We're proud that large areas of our farm have been dedicated towards land care and wildlife conservation.

"We respectfully acknowledge the Traditional Owners, Custodians and Elders past and present of the Indigenous Nations on whose lands we work."

Michael asks people to visit the website and hope people will support regenerative farming by visiting the online shop.

"If you're visiting Kangaroo Island, please be aware we do not have a bricks and mortar visitor centre at this time, but you can get olives around the island, including the local supermarkets in Kingscote and Penneshaw," Michael said.

"Alternatively, we encourage you to visit our friends Kym and Bridgette who run a farm shop that's only 10 minutes up the road.

They're very familiar with our olive grove and offer a range of locally grown KI produce."

Kangaroo Island Olives also has a farm stay.

The recently renovated 'Little Liguria' homestead can be found nestled between our oldest olive grove and the Nepean Bay waterfront.

Named after the famous region of Northern Italy, in honour of the Ligurian olive tree and honey bee, which are both farmed on the property, the original homestead is centrally located within walking distance of the olive groves, beach, horse stables, lagoon and nature trails.

Constructed mostly from locally sourced materials, the octagonal shape is truly iconic and breathes circular, regenerative energy into the life of the home.

Having undergone a major renovation in 2019, the home offers complete privacy, while providing a centralised base from which to visit the many attractions across the island.

The house comfortably accommodates six guests in four bedrooms. Additional single beds can be arranged (not in private bedrooms) and there's plenty of camping space.

Guests have access to the entire property but should always stick to tracks, obey signage and avoid wandering off too far.

If you have a 4WD you can drive up to the beach, otherwise it's a short walk on foot. A 4WD is recommended but not critical.

A PLACE TO “WINE” DOWN

DUDLEY EAST

A PLACE where couples, friends and family can enjoy a quiet drink, a tasting paddle and delicious food, False Cape Wines is the cellar door for every occasion.

Julie and Jamie Helyar have created an ambience and experience where people of all ages can kick back and enjoy.

“Our cellar door is like driving into an Australian oasis that is surrounded by gum trees, gardens, and vineyards on the picturesque Willson River,” Julie said.

“Visitors can immerse themselves in the natural surroundings and truly relax from the stresses of daily life.

“Our favourite thing about the cellar door is the visitor’s smiles and appreciation as they enjoy a few hours of the simple things in life - good wine, food, nature and friends.”

The use of limestone and recycled timber creates a fantastic relaxed atmosphere.

There is a large deck, lawn areas, kids playground, farm animals, basketball backboard, shaded areas, plus indoor and outdoor wood fires, making it the ideal family destination all year round.

Originally a teacher and shearer, the Helyars had family connections to Lake Breeze Wines, located at Langhorne Creek, who encouraged them to start their vineyard.

“We take pride in showcasing premium, authentic Kangaroo Island wines where the grapes are all dry grown, only relying on rainfall,” Julie said.

“This ensures intense flavours and colours in our wines.”

For more than 20 years, the winery has been producing incredible wines to the highest standard. Their recent vintages rates over 90 points by James Halliday, with their cabernet merlot, cabernet sauvignon and riesling all scoring 94 points.

Their brother and brother-in-law, Greg Follett, who is an award winning winemaker, has taken the Kangaroo Island cool climate grapes and handcrafted them into a fantastic selection of premium wines. False Cape Cellar Door came to fruition to showcase the wines as well as their beautiful location on the Dudley Peninsula.

Off the grid and completely relying on solar power, Julie said that there is also limited mobile reception, which they love.

“It’s phones down, which creates conversation and laughter instead.”

False Cape Wines is open seven days a week, from 11am to 5pm and is located at 1054 Willson River Road, Dudley East.

AMERICAN RIVER

LIFE is an adventure - and Ken and Amanda Rowe's adventure has been one with a true sea change.

The pair began their story in white-collar, corporate, IT and recruitment with an inner-city living lifestyle, and chose to leave it all behind for blue-collar oyster farming, tourism and food production, remote country living and to free-range their young family.

"We wanted to give our girls the freedom and safety that we had when we were growing up," Amanda said.

"They say the village raises the children and that was one of the many things we love about our Island home."

They sold their IT recruitment company in 2005 and moved to Penneshaw on Kangaroo Island then started looking for a business opportunity.

"We wanted a business that met our core values, including minimal impact on the environment and to contribute to our community," Amanda said.

"Oyster farming is a positive impact aquaculture industry that not only provides a sustainable food source, it also provides many benefits to the environment from improving water quality and nutrient cycling to providing habitats for biodiversity, carbon sequestration, removal of nitrogen and accelerating denitrification.

"It ticked the boxes for our core values."

Farming and fishing the sea has long been in both Ken and Amanda's families, so the saltwater farming seemed a fitting adventure for the two of them.

With a steep learning curve and some harsh lessons from mother nature, Ken and Amanda have created a year-round, sustainable business on Kangaroo Island.

Their careers have come pretty much full circle now with a new aquaculture farm management app developed by Ken that has been rolled out across South Australia and beyond.

So the corporate IT background and the oyster farmer became one, all through a passion to do something good for the environment.

But the business does not stop there.

Kangaroo Island Shellfish is now licensed to farm not only Pacific Oysters but also native Angasi oysters, native Blue Mussels and seaweed with a major focus being research and development into multi-trophic farming of these species.

Their vision for developing an integrated aquaculture and tourism business in the tranquil, seaside town of American River is fast becoming a reality.

Some completed projects include increased all-weather dining capacity at the Farm Shop and the development of a new on-farm experience within their Secret Oyster Bar, The Shucking Experience.

Tuna and kingfish sashimi are now on offer, straight from Port Lincoln to American River and stored in a newly purchased -65 degree specialty freezer for optimum freshness and quality.

*At the time of this article going to print, Todd and Marisa Packer are the new owners of the Oyster Farm.

Coming from a background of mussel farming, they are not strangers to the industry and passionately share Amanda and Ken Rowe's vision for the Aquaculture industry in American River.

Ken, Amanda and The Oyster Farm Shop team will continue to operate as a closely aligned operation with the farm while we all work together toward the shared vision.

SUSTAINABLY GROWN ON KI

SMITH BAY

KANGAROO Island is no stranger to prestige, with Smith Bay being the home to world-class Australian green-lip abalone.

Since 1995, Yumbah

Aquaculture, one of the largest shellfish aquaculture companies in Australia, has quietly cultured award-winning shellfish alongside the pristine waters of Australia's Southern Ocean.

At the heart of Yumbah's operations is respect for the natural elements of the ocean, which is embodied by the Yumbah people and their singular purpose of sharing the joy of responsibly grown, sustainable shellfish with and for the planet.

Yumbah has unlocked the secret to a great coastal seafood experience that starts at Kangaroo Island and extends to farms along Australia's Southern Ocean, and is born out of respect, passion, craftsmanship and care.

Green-lip abalone is one of the most highly sought ocean delicacies with a delicate, sweet flavour, and Yumbah offers the produce to a range of clients from across the world.

HANDMADE KI CREATIONS

KANGAROO ISLAND

MOTHER and daughter duo, Robyn Field and Kellie Klein, are proud of their range of authentically Australian made gifts and souvenirs.

Their family business, KI and Co. Australia, is their handcrafted products such as earrings, art cards and more, which are stocked around the island and across Australia.

"Through KI and Co. Australia being an Australian made brand, we're supporting other Australian businesses and local manufacturers," Kellie said. "Everything we buy or print locally has a positive flow on effect."

"We also print our earring cards, art cards and gift tags on 100 per cent recycled paper."

As well as making leather products, Kellie manages the business while Robyn is the resident artist and potter.

"It's really important to embrace Australian made and owned, and support local," Robyn said.

The popular leather earrings are handmade with leather, that is processed and tanned in Australia.

The raw porcelain is also from Australia, with the earrings made by hand and fired on Kangaroo Island.

Other products include art scarves, gift tags, activity and colouring books and art prints, all of which are made on Kangaroo Island or in Australia.

To see the range visit the website or stockists around the island.

WILDLIFE HELP

THE Kangaroo Island Wildlife Network (KIWN) is a not-for-profit organisation whose volunteers deliver ongoing wildlife conservation programs for all species of wildlife.

This includes environmental protection and restoration, as well as emergency response and direct care for rescued, orphaned or injured wildlife.

Vehicle strike is the main reason wildlife goes into care, so the KIWN urges visitors to slow down and watch for wildlife when driving around the island.

In some good news, there are new road wildlife signs reminding drivers to slow down and to call 1300 KIWILD (549 453) when animals are injured.

Other new roadside signs remind visitors and residents of the presence of wildlife after dark.

KIWN president Katie Welz said the new signage had resulted in a six-fold increase in calls to the network hotline.

"After many years, the KI Wildlife Network is so excited that our 'Report Injured Wildlife' signs have been erected around the Island on Department of Infrastructure and Transport roads to act as a reminder that wildlife is active on our roads," she said.

"We encourage all motorists to safely pull over when they see injured wildlife and call 1300-KIWILD for assistance."

The KIWN also provides and helps to plant trees and shrubs to support many species across the Island and the little penguin and glossy black cockatoo were just two of the focus habitat restoration projects for 2023.

MARKET TIME

KINGSCOTE

AN enthusiastic group of stallholders peddle their wares at the Kingscote Farmers and Artisans Market once a month.

This season, markets will be held on the third Sunday of each month on the wharf lawn in Kingscote, from 10am until 1pm.

Head down towards the seafront and you will see the event on the grass beside the historic police station.

Vegetable stalls provide same-day fresh, island-grown produce and seedlings.

Market secretary Susie serves her exquisite "douceurs" – macaroons and cakes. Naomi attends most markets with a very popular range of artisan breads and pastries, but get in quick – she sells out every time!

There is also Julie with jams and preserves, Anne with her bright and delicate glass art, Mark with magnificent, welded metal sculptures, and Ali with her intoxicating range of candles, soaps and blended tea. Other stallholders offer a selection of woven mats, leatherwork, paintings, cards, plants, flowers, craft work and original art.

And don't miss out on your morning coffee!

This year's Market chair Alice is well placed to serve tasty, locally roasted brews in the book shop over the road. Lots of planning has gone into pulling tasty shots fast enough for a busy Sunday. Every market is also open to car boot sales, so keep an eye out for a tantalising bargain or a piece of island history.

There is also live music, so come along and soak up the atmosphere. With wet and windy weather contingencies in place, even the wildest market days will see a scaled-back event take place, so don't be put off by the vagaries of the island's climate.

Support local – eat local – relax in a scenic spot and enjoy a true KI welcome!

WELCOMING, JUST LIKE A HUG

KINGSCOTE

BIG Quince Books & Coffee is a gorgeous spot to sit and look out across Backstairs Passage to the mainland.

Island roasted coffee, exotic island-blended teas and a range of locally baked cheesecakes and cookies are available between 9am to 5pm weekdays and 9.30am to 4pm weekends.

Find a holiday read or a thoughtful gift in Big Quince's well-stocked bookshop. There's something for everyone – fiction, non-fiction, books about Kangaroo Island and plenty of activities and stories for kids.

Browse cards and gift packs, humorous pins and socks, photo frames, soaps and bagged tea and coffee.

Owners Alice and Stu have worked hard to have Big Quince evolve into an inclusive community space.

Groups like the KI Players meet there and painting workshops, art and photography exhibitions, writers in residence, book launches and events for children take place regularly.

It is also Kingscote's print hub, with document and photo printing, scanning and a suite of signage services available.

There is a lot going on under one roof – which isn't uncommon for businesses trying to make ends meet in a small town.

People have described Big Quince as welcoming customers "like a hug" with its warm colours, eclectic range and appealing details.

Indoor and outdoor seating, a comfy armchair and Ada the well-behaved shop dog all contribute to making Big Quince a special little nook.

ONE OF A KIND ON KI

PELICAN LAGOON

SINCE 2010, Linda Jenkins and Indiana James have made one-off soft hats and found-object sculptures in their purpose built barn at their 'Boomerbank' property, just off Hog Bay Road, at Pelican Lagoon.

Linda's 'youthful useful unique' hats are on display in her upstairs studio and include everything from practical outdoors to high fashion.

Following her childhood on Kangaroo Island, Linda started as a machinist for Meyer Brand clothing, in Adelaide.

After raising four daughters, her natural abilities with colour and textiles led to a fashion degree and life as a fashion designer.

Living and working as a creative artist in her birthplace and having the time and space to make beautiful, wearable comfort inspires Linda, and she loves watching women light up as they try on the perfect hat.

A geologist who migrated to Australia in 1986, Indiana continues to find meaning in the wreckages of human endeavour, creating Australian wildlife from driftwood, corrugated iron and discarded farm machinery.

Indiana has exhibited his works extensively in Adelaide and Sydney and has won many public commissions and major arts awards.

He is happy to discuss monumental works or major commissions.

Whether you are shopping or just want to see what we are up to, you are welcome at 'Boomerbank' on the shore of pristine Pelican Lagoon.

Just turn in off Hog Bay Road, at the big yellow sunflower, 20 kilometres west of Penneshaw.

And to be sure they are home, it's best to ring ahead on 0408 600 243.

Is this the rarest honey on earth?

To most people honey is just another spread on the supermarket shelf, nestled somewhere between the jams and peanut butter. But not this honey.

For a start, this honey comes from Kangaroo Island, a pristine, GM free, bee sanctuary 13 kilometres off the coast of South Australia.

Kangaroo Island is the oldest bee sanctuary in the world and home to the purest Ligurian bees on Earth. Renowned for their gentle nature, they were brought to the island in the 1880s, protected by a special act of parliament in 1885 and have been fortunate to avoid most of the diseases and contaminants that have affected other bees around the world.

This particular variety of honey was collected by the bees in 2019 from flowering gum trees called Eucalyptus Remota that only grow in one location on the planet: the western end of Kangaroo Island. But if that wasn't special enough, nearly all these trees were destroyed by the bushfires on the island in 2020 and will now take up to 7 years to fully regenerate.

You won't find this honey in a single supermarket, or store, anywhere in the world. There is simply not enough to go around. The limited quantity of jars have been hand packed on Kangaroo Island and they are only available in 300 gram numbered bottles from one website, ours.

As you can imagine, this honey has an authentic, pure, beautiful flavour. But taste isn't the only benefit provided by these unique bees. They also make propolis, a natural substance shown in University of Sydney research to be effective in the treatment of human cancer cells. Further investigation is being undertaken to determine the therapeutic benefits.

This honey is a rare and special treat, to be enjoyed, shared, or sent as a unique gift to friends and family around the world. Or you may choose to just keep it. Honey is the only food that doesn't need or have an expiry date. Edible honey was found in Egyptian tombs.

So, while honey lasts forever, this one will disappear very quickly.
